

Plugin Master @ Incsub / Edublogs

Summary

Incsub & Edublogs are expanding rapidly in 2010 and we're looking for an advanced WordPress plugin developer to join the team full time.

You'll be responsible for developing and improving plugin functionality at Edublogs and also contributing plugins to Incsub sites including WPMU DEV and WP Plugins.

The role offers massive scope to develop your passion for all things WP as part of the fastest growing and most exciting WP development group on the web, as well as be a key part of one of the largest blogging platforms out there.

Experience / Qualifications

To fit this role you'll have to be able to demonstrate:

- Outstanding plugin development skills
- A commitment to speedy and quality delivery
- Great personal / support communication skills

You'll also be happy to work from home, manage your time accordingly, be independent, able to take the lead, pro-active and seriously ambitious.

Conditions

We're keen to offer the right person an attractive package complete with flexible holidays and the opportunity to lead up Edublogs development and other new Incsub projects.

Apply

Email admin@incsub.com with samples of your work and a brief summary of your experience (please make absolutely sure you link to or attach plugins solely authored by yourself).

Links demonstrating your awesome communication skills would be great too :)

And please feel free to ask any questions about the role.

Cut of date Friday 5th March 2010!